

Voltants: Bring your everyday surroundings to Barcelona

Your backyard, your room, the office, the bus stop... Those places so familiar that sometimes escape the lens, but still represent our deepest imaginary. Voltants.com aims to be a space for those places to meet, traversing seas, drawing us in, projecting us.

Fotonauta and Barcelona Photobloggers invite all persons interested in photography to participate uploading their images to voltants.com, making this website a meeting point between your own surroundings and what is around others but far from you.

The first edition of voltants will take place at Sonimagfoto 2007 in Barcelona. All images uploaded to voltants.com will be on projection display, converting our collective surroundings in contemporary art.

Digital photography in conjunction with the internet allow us to gain access to the most remote places yet these places become proximal; just as in Catalan, the word voltants refers to the most proximal surroundings.

Help us bring surroundings from around the world to Barcelona at Sonimagfoto. Pass the voice to your pals from the neighborhood or from the other side of the world so, together, we can fit the world into a screen.
